"MEANHST AND MOST IGNORANT." That's What Mr. Goings Said About the Richmond People.

Mr. Frederick A. Goings, of Canada, who has recently done a good deal of canvassing in this city in the interests of some Shakespearian readings, which he purposes giving in Richmond sometime during the latter part of this week, will hardly display his literary attainments before an overwhelming and highly appreciative audience, owing to a series of indiscretions he was guilty of during his sojourn here.

Mr. Goings is an Irishman by birth, and a k; al worshipper at the shrine of the great English dramatist; but, with all his culture, he has falled to observe culture, he has failed to observe fact that a man can't make literary friends by grossly slandering them. nake a long story short, the admirer of Stakespeare seemed to have been piqued from the fact that Richmond people were not inclined to tear their hair over his literary achievements, and adopting the "Fcx and-Grapes" policy, he proceeded to abuse his patrons that were to be. Entering a prominent lawyer's office, Mr. Geirgs became somewhat. and inquired of the lawyer if Richmond was a criterion of Southern cicies.
"In what respect?" asked the lawyer.

"In regard to intelligence and culture."
"Well, I should say that Richmond is at least one of the most cultivated cities in the South," replied the lawyer.

"From what I can judge," continued the literateur, "the people of Richmond are the meanest and most grossly ignorant of any people I have ever met." The lawyer sat up more erect. "Don't you think it rather bad taste for you to make such remarks to me, and about a people you expect to patronize you? Well, that is my candid opinion."

"But I do not care to hear it, and I shall not listen to another word of it announced the lawyer, rising from his seat, while the Canadian left the room, and afterwards repeated these and similar criticisms to several other citizens of

Mr. Goings, who brought with him a man in Petersburg, may have been too deeply absorbed in his literary efforts and prospects to recognize his gross mistake, and will probably not realize the blunder until he finds that empty benches are not very appreciative of readings by a man may be thoroughly familiar Shakespeare, but sadly lacking in judg-ment and policy. It is more than likely that the gentleman from Canada will not have an enthusiastic audience when he attempts to expound the beauties and merits of England's great literary idol.

THE PLAY AND PLAYER Attractions to Be Seen at Richmond's Theatres This Week.

Powell, the magician, opens the Academy this week on Wednerday evening for a two-night engagement. Although unknown to Richmond people, he is sure of their plaudits and commendation, for in New York he has a reputation that in no small way eclipses the brigtness of Herman. His performances created something of a sensation in New York city. Mr. Powell gives an interesting performance, which includes many acts of magic never before seen in Richmond.

Mr. Wilfred The clever comedian, Mr. Wilfred Clarke, a grandson of Junius Brutus th, a nephew of Edwin Booth, and a of the noted American comedian, a Sleeper Clarke and Asia Booth Clarke, appears at the Academy next Friday and Saturday evenings with a matinee on the latter day.

The coming of Marie Jansen Monday and Tuesday at the Theatre will be an event of great significance to the Richmond public. "Delmonico's at Six," by Glen McDonough, is spoken of as a mas-terpiece whereever it has been presented, and furnishes this charming comedienne with excellent opportunities to display her with excellent opportunities to display her versatility. She comes as a star in a new play, the brilliancy and reinement of which have brought forth showers of applause throughout the country.

Messrs. C. B. Jefferson, Klaw & Erlanger send this popular actress South feel-ing assured that she will repeat her former successes. Manager J. Wesley Rosenquest has booked Jansen for the seaon of '94-'95 at the Bijou Theatre, New York.

EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY. One Pardon Granted, While Another is Refused. Governor McKinney yesterday greated a pardon to A. D. Keiser, of Richmond county, who in July last was sentenced to three year's imprisonment in the pen-itentiary for bigamy. The application for pardon was endorsed by the trial judge, Commonwealth's attorney, the jury and many other citizens of the county. The Governor gives the following reasons for granting the pardon:

"Under the peculiar circumstances of this case, I feel sure that this party was guilty of no intentional violation of the law. His first wife, with whom he lived unhappily, was divorced and married again, and he believed that he had a right to marry also, and did marry again, right to marry also, and did marry again, and had been living with his present wife for fourteen years, before he was prescuted and convicted."

The Governor declined to pardon W. S. Gill, of Sherandoah county, who was convicted in 1836 of embezzlement, and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary, but escaped from the county jail before he could be brought to Richmond. The Governor gives the following reasons: "I cannot pardon a prisoner who, as soon as convicted, violates the law by breaking jail and making his escape, and has paid re sort of penalty for the first offence, and is now guilty of another."

Church News.

The Unitarian services that have been resumed to-day at 4 P. M. in Belvidere Hall. Rev. Mr. Chaney spent the month of September in attendance at the Parliament of Religions, and to-day will give his impression of that gathering with especial reference to the thought of eligious unity as presented there. The First Presbyterian Sunday school has issued a handsome invitation ows: Rallying Day, October 15th, 4 P. M. Every person, old or young, who has ever been a member of this school, is warmly invited to be present. There will be root for all. With cheerful songs of praise, help ful, hopeful, words by the pastor, super-intendent and others. "Gather the people together, men and women and children, and the stranger that is within thy gates." As many of the maturer citizens of Richmond graduated from this school, in the sixty or more decades of its history, a large crowd will no doubt throng the church on this interesting occasion

J. C. Hiden, D. Grove-avenue Baptist church, will begin a series of meetings at that church day. To-morrow night Rev. Dr. W. Landrum will assist the pastor, and will preach every night of this week except Saturday night. The week-night services will be held in the basement commencing at 8 o'clock. The indications are promising that lasting good will result from these meetings.

A mass meeting will be held at Walnut Grove church in Hanover to-day in the interest of State missions. William Ellyson, Esq., secretary of the State Mission Board, will deliver an address in the morning, and Professor F. W. Boatwright, of Richmond College, will speak also in the interest of missions, in the afternoon. the interest of missions, in the atternoon.

"An Important Question Answered" will be the subject of the second sermon this Rev. Dr. Sledd at Centenary church. Sledd, since his recovery to full health, is preaching with seemingly recovered powers, and his sermons all breathe the old, old story of Jesus and his love.

The hour of the afternoon service in the Second Presbyterian church has been changed from 5 to 4 o'clock, and will so continue until further notice. Dr. Hoge will continue the series of discourses commenced last April on "Memorable Eras in Church History."

The effect of Friday's storm is yet severely felt in newspaper as well as commercial circles. The Coast line mults from the North came through last night by the Richmond and Danville to Orange Courthouse, and thence by the Chesa-peake and Ohio to Hanover Junction, where the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac train was taken to the Byrd-Street station. The train due here at 2:38 P. M., arrived by that route at 8:40 P. M., and the 7:15 P. M. train did not reach the city until after midnight. The trains on the Richmond and Danville and Chesapeake and Ohio resumed their regular schedules yesterday, and it is thought the washouts between Quantico and Wash-ngton will have been repaired sufficiently by to-day to admit of the regular passage of trains

The Western Union telegraphic connections were restored yesterday to nearly all Southern points, and the wires were working fairly well as far as Washington last night. Much confusion still exists, however, and it will be several days before their lines are working as usual.

The Postal Telegraphic Company re-ported last night that they had re-established communication with all points South except Wilmington.

electric fire alarm system of Richmond was seriously damaged, and Superintendent Thompson had every available hand at work yesterday making repairs. They were all straightened out again, and last night were in good working order.

A hack belonging to Mr. James Mc-

Just in front of the elegant row of brownstone mansions on Broad street, above referred to, the bill-boards were piled up in a heap.
At the corner of Ninth and Clay

A small house with its chimney in Jackson Ward was reported to be blown

During the storm Friday night, about 9:30 o'clock, the handsome iron wind-mill of Mr. Russell Wyatt, who lives one mile beyond Barton Heights, was blown down and badly demolished. The loss to Mr. Wyatt was about $250, with no insurance. No one was hurt by the accident

There will be a meeting of Trinity Lodge Good Templars Tuesday night, when the Grand Chief Templar will be present. Music and recitations will be the order of the exercises.

SENATOR WHITE'S DECLARATION. Talks of Expelling Mr. Dubois, of Idaho.

Referring to the incident in the Senate Friday, in connection with the refusal of fore. Mr. Dubois, of Idaho, to vote on a paper submitted by Mr. Peffer, of Kansas, the Washington Post says: As the roll-call proceeded senator after senator arose to announce that he was paired with some other senator, and would, therefore, withhold his vote. Consequently, when the record was com-plete, it bore the names of only thirty-six piete, it bore the names of only thirty-six senators, eighteen on each side. Learning from the Vice-President that a quorum had not voted, Mr. Quay announced that, although paired, he would vote in order to help swell the attendance. No other senator followed his example. "During the calling of the names Mr. Dubois, with his fellow-fighters of repeal, sat silent in his seat. Mr. Vitas, who seemed to have selected the Idaho senator for the especial object of his wrath, called attention to the fact. For the next half hour there was a veritable storm centre around Mr. Dubois' head.

The senator from Idaho arose slowly and complaisantly announced that he was responsible to the people of his State and not to the Senator from Wisconsin for his action. He believed it was to the interest of his constituents to withhold his vote and therefore he did Then he sat down again, calmly The question was now raised by the

The question was now raised by the silver men whether the Senate had a right to pass in judgment upon the validity of this excuse while a quorum was not present. In the midst of a good deal of hair-splitting Mr. White, of Louisiania, burst forth into bitter denunciation. "If the record shows that a senator is upon the floor," he exclaimed, and he sits silent in his seat during a a senator is upon the floor," he exclaimed, and he sits silent in his seat during a roil-call. I believe the power exists in this body not only to count him as voting, but to turn him out and expel him if he does not perform his duty. Such silence is a shame to every civilized man and to every honest judgment. The first step in this great body should be to gather its self-respect about it so that it may save some of the honor and character which has been its proud garment for so many years and which are now being dragged down in the mire and the dust.

Mr. White's sensational declaration rather etartled the senators, and Mr. Me-Mr. White's sensational declaration rather startled the senators, and Mr. Merather startled the senators, and shall reference made the point that no debate was in order. This the Chair instantly sustained. Mr. McPherson proceeded however, to discuss his point of order after it had thus been decided, and was literally howled down amid a confusion and disorder such as the confusion and disorder such as the confusion to seen since the debate benate has not seen since the debate began. He desisted, and the Vice-Preside when quiet was once more obtained, de-cided that Mr. Dubois' explanation could not be accepted or rejected in the absence
